

Demi Moore Gets Support from Daughters Scout & Tallulah at Visionary Women's Honor Celebration!

March 9, 2018

Vivien Killilea and Rachel Murra

Demi Moore is all smiles as she gets in-between her daughters Scout Willis and Tallulah Willis at Visionary Women's In Celebration of International Women's Day event held on Thursday (March 8) in Beverly Hills, Calif.

The 55-year-old entertainer and her daughters Scout, 26, and Tallulah, 24, were also joined by Adam Sandler and his wife Jackie, and Trina Venit at the event where she was honored for her work with her non-profit called THORN, which combats sex trafficking.

Visionary Women is a non-profit organization dedicated to advancing the status of women and creating a unique forum for women leaders across various fields to connect around important topics impacting women today.

